

FIGHT ROOSEVELT'S CHANGE OF VENUE
Barnes' Attorneys Declare Consent Would Be Misinterpreted.
JUSTICE CHESTER RESERVES DECISION
Voluminous Affidavits Submitted by Both Sides—Colonel's Answer Made of Record.

Albany, Sept. 12.—Decision was reserved today by Supreme Court Justice Chester on the motion of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's attorneys to have the $50,000 suit for alleged libel, brought against him by Republican State Chairman William Barnes, tried outside of Albany County, Mr. Barnes' home.

Voluminous affidavits were submitted by both sides, and the attorneys were given until next Saturday to file additional briefs. Incidentally, Mr. Roosevelt's answer to the Barnes complaint was made a part of the record of today's proceedings.

The principal plea for a change of venue was made by the Roosevelt attorneys on the allegation that Mr. Barnes dominated the politics of Albany County, and that consequently it would be impossible to obtain a fair and impartial trial here. The Barnes counsel denied Mr. Barnes' alleged dominance, and contended that Albany County jurors would try the case honestly on its merits.

The Roosevelt attorneys intimated that the Barnes counsel should expect a change of venue. To this W. M. Irvine, appearing for Mr. Barnes, replied:

"Knowing the temper of the defendant, Mr. Roosevelt, if we consented, it would be immediately utilized by him as an admission by us of the fact that we have the political control with which he charges us."

In substance, it is alleged that Mr. Barnes has been for years and still is the dominant power in the Republican organization of the state. That there has been co-operation between the Republican and Democratic state organizations.

That while Colonel Roosevelt was Governor Mr. Barnes opposed the passage of the franchise tax law and insisted upon the reappointment of Louis F. Payne as Superintendent of Insurance in order not to antagonize financial interests which had contributed to his election.

That the Democratic and Republican organizations had worked together to defeat the primary and anti-race track gambling legislation of Governor Hughes.

That former Senator William J. Grattan, of Albany, had voted against the Hughes anti-gambling bills at Barnes' instigation. That Mr. Grattan is now clerk of Albany County and will draw the veniremen for the Barnes-Roosevelt trial if it is held in this county.

The Grattan allegation was attested by an affidavit of former Senator Grattan, the author of one of the anti-gambling bills.

The report of the committee of the Senate which investigated Albany City and County in 1911 and many newspaper and magazine articles are included in the answer.

Mr. Irvine contended that the greater part of the answer was not relevant to the pending motion, but was "an aggressive attack on the defendant."

Mr. Roosevelt kept Mr. Barnes in office for several years and the President knew all the things about him that this answer alleges, then President Roosevelt's actions were nothing less than criminal.

HINMAN GETS SUPPORT
Rockland County Republicans Indorse Senator.

Nyack, Sept. 12.—The candidacy of Harvey D. Hinman for Governor was unanimously indorsed here today at a meeting of representative Republicans of Rockland County. Gordon B. Peck, chairman of the County Committee, presided. Among those in attendance were Frank Crombie, Harry Essex, David D. Smith, Frank S. Harris, Republican candidate for Assembly; County Treasurer Walter G. Hamilton, former Town Clerk John Smith, Isaac Pyle, County Superintendent of the Port August Gross, William Severn, Richard Oldfield, of Haverstraw; James Hurd, Lucien H. Washburn, James Kilby and Mortimer Patterson.

Senator Hinman made a short address. Senator John B. Root of Newburgh, Captain Joseph M. Dicky, chairman Peck, Mr. Kilby and Mr. Hamilton also spoke.

REPUBLICAN RIVALS READY FOR TEST
Hinman and Hedges Start Speaking Tour Upstate This Week.

James W. Wadsworth will make a series of speeches at the district clubs in Brooklyn. Representative Calder will appear at three meetings in Manhattan. They will be held in the headquarters of the 25th Assembly District, 240 West 11th st., at the Progressive Republican Club, 40 Second av., and at the James G. Blaine Club, in the 2d Assembly District.

Former Senator Hinman, after spending the day in conference with leaders of Rockland County, reached this city last night to go over plans with the local Hinman leaders here. Tomorrow he goes to speak at Watertown. Job E. Hedges has some upstate speaking dates this week.

On his return from his upstate tour Representative Calder yesterday vigorously attacked the assumption of President Wilson that the present condition of the revenues of the country is to be attributed to the European war. He had a few criticisms to make of the Underwood tariff law.

"An examination of our imports will show," said Mr. Calder, "that in the first nine months of the operation of the Underwood tariff law the receipts exceeded those of a like period in 1913 by more than $100,000,000, while our revenues decreased $25,000,000. If, in the preparation of the Underwood act, we had been taken to task by a measure that would furnish sufficient revenue to run the country's business we would not be today facing this alarming situation."

"I do not believe the administration will resort to the levying of an income tax, except in case of dire need, although I observe that our Democratic friends at Washington are considering the advisability of increasing the tax on incomes. I am surprised at this, for, under the present income tax, nearly one-half the revenue obtained from the state is derived from the tax on incomes from the people of the State of New York, and any additional burden will fall largely upon the people of this state."

At the anti-Murphy headquarters yesterday the statement was made that Charles F. Murphy was willing to withdraw his entire state ticket if the Hennessy-Roosevelt combination would only support Glynn.

The attempt of Murphy agents to create the impression that the Wilson administration Democrats have retired from the fight against the Tammany boss," the statement read, "is absurd on the face of it. It is particularly amusing in view of the fact that Murphy has been willing at any time during the last three days to withdraw his entire ticket if a compromise on his Governor, Glynn, could be arranged. The offer of compromise was refused."

By way of disproving the statement that federal officeholders had been told not to take an active part in the campaign, they announced that John E. Squire, Appraiser of the Port, would speak at the Hennessy meeting in the Yorkville Casino tomorrow night. Both Hennessy and Franklin D. Roosevelt will speak.

Mr. Hennessy will talk in Brooklyn later in the evening on the Union Bank scandal there. Mr. Roosevelt will go from the Yorkville Casino to the Hotel McAlpin, where he will talk to the Central City Committee of the Jeffersonian Alliance.

WADSWORTH AND CALDER TALK HERE
Representative Hits Tariff and Income Tax in Criticizing Wilson Policy.

This week will see two candidates for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate speaking in this city. Two of the candidates for the Republican nomination for Governor will wage their fight upstate.

James W. Wadsworth will make a series of speeches at the district clubs in Brooklyn. Representative Calder will appear at three meetings in Manhattan. They will be held in the headquarters of the 25th Assembly District, 240 West 11th st., at the Progressive Republican Club, 40 Second av., and at the James G. MISS JOBE FINDS BIG ICE MOUNTAIN
Woman Explorer Braves Frost Perils to Climb Canadian Peak.

The distinction of discovering a hitherto unknown mountain, 11,000 feet high and 70 miles north of the last survey of the Canadian map makers in British Columbia, has fallen to a woman, Miss Mary L. Jobe, a noted mountain climber and instructor in history in the New York City Normal College, who returned yesterday from a six weeks' expedition into the glacial regions of that country.

Accompanied by a guide, Donald Phillips, Miss Jobe succeeded in climbing over eight miles of glacial ice on the new mountain and reaching an altitude only 800 feet below its highest peak.

"The last 800 feet was absolutely insurmountable," said Miss Jobe, "being an overhanging stretch of large ice caves, with huge stalactites of ice, fifty or sixty feet long, hanging from the roofs of the caverns. We spent four hours on the mountain itself, taking accurate geographical surveys and many pictures. The mountain has five square miles. It is 12,000 feet high. It is in longitude 129 west and between 55 and 56 north latitude, 700 miles from the Canadian border and 150 miles north of Mount Reason, the highest mountain in the Canadian Rockies. We saw absolutely no traces of human beings, not even Indians, for fifty or sixty miles before we reached the base of the mountain."

The mountain is yet unnamed, being referred to by Miss Jobe merely as "the big ice mountain," but she intends to find out the name by which the Cree Indians called it. They live in the wilds of British Columbia and produce have long and named the mountain in their tribal tongue. Miss Jobe and Phillips built a cairn at the highest point they reached.

Miss Jobe and her guide were accompanied to the base of the new mountain by Miss Margaret Springate, of Winnipeg, a friend, and another guide. The expedition travelled by railroad sixteen hours, from Edmonton west into Fraser Park to Mount Robson station, where they started north with eight horses and equipment. They crossed ten mountain ranges with the horses and made their last horse camp four ranges from the "big ice mountain" at an altitude of 7,000 feet. There they "back-packed," making the rest of the journey on foot, and arriving at the base of the mountain on August 20.

On a new storm and short rations made them retreat toward the last horse camp. About halfway back they encountered a lot of grouse and killed a sufficient number to provide two of the party with meat for several days, which determined Miss Jobe and Phillips to return and attempt to climb the mountain, while the others went back to the horse camp. They were on foot nine days.

The explorers also located another mountain to the northeast of the "ice mountain," which they estimated was not more than ten miles away and between 10,000 and 11,000 feet high, and which they believed to be the last northern peak of the Canadian Rockies.

WOMAN SHOTS HERSELF
Body Found Near Home with Bullet in Head.

Hackensack, N. J., Sept. 12.—The body of Miss Emma G. Dusenbury was found in a wooded near the Dusenbury home, at North Hackensack, this morning, with a bullet wound in the head. A revolver was discovered with one cartridge exploded. It was not known until the case was found in her bedroom. County Physician Armstrong decided that she had committed suicide.

The Dusenbury family is wealthy and Miss Dusenbury wanted, for nothing, her parents can offer no reason for her self-destruction. She was thirty-nine years old.

WAR DEATH ROBS MOTHER OF 2 TOTS
Woman Trapped on Battlefield—Tries to Flee with Children.

While the Cunard liner Campania came up the bay from Quarantine last night after a trip from Liverpool Mrs. Curtis Gibbs, of Berkeley, Cal., an American woman, hard hit by the European war, unfolded with subdued voice a story of suffering that brought tears to the eyes of a group of men and women who chanced to stand by.

Representatives of the Mayor's committee had heard of her plight, and immediately arranged to care for her in this city and send her home to California.

Some three or four months ago Mrs. Gibbs went to Wirballen, a border town in Russian Poland, close to the Prussian line, to visit her brother-in-law and his wife. With Mrs. Gibbs were her three children, Curtis, aged seven; Orleans, four, and Martha, three.

The Russian mobilization had warned the inhabitants long in advance that trouble was brewing, and practically all of the men in Wirballen went with the reserve regiments. Mrs. Gibbs's sister-in-law went to assist in hospital work, and no one was left in the house but the American woman and her children.

Shortly after noon on August 1 Mrs. Gibbs said she heard firing in the east, and fearing that the Prussian or Austrian troops were marching upon the town ran to the outskirts with her three children in a westerly direction. After walking for about three miles the woman found herself in the middle of a fierce battle between Russian and German infantry. She had only been exposed to fire for twenty minutes when a squad of Russian soldiers rushed out from their trenches near by and conducted her to their lines.

Carefully screening the woman and children with their bodies, the big troopers hurried them to a trench, and when opportunity offered passed them from the forward trenches to the rear. The battle raged fiercely all that afternoon and was resumed at dawn. The firing was so incessant that Mrs. Gibbs was advised to remain in the cover of the trenches. She and the three children stayed there until the morning of August 3, when the Russians had driven the enemy back.

During the first night Mrs. Gibbs said her boy Curtis had developed a high fever and at dawn on August 3, he died in her arms. She was then alone the retreating troops having passed on. She carried her son's body in her arms to the town where she searched for an undertaker. The village was practically deserted and at the first undertaking shop she found the owner and his assistants had fled. In despair she took down from a shelf a coffin of proper size and, putting the boy in it, dragged coffin and body to the garden of her brother-in-law's home. There she dug a grave so shallow that the earth just barely covered the coffin.

Meanwhile, the daughter Orleans became ill from exposure, and Mrs. Gibbs determined to get her to some town in the province of Vilna, where medical help could be obtained. She managed to get within a few miles of Lanesvavo on the morning of August 7, when the girl died. A peasant helped her to the town where the child was buried in a Russian cemetery. Later she travelled to Vilborg, Finland, where she arrived penniless.

Mrs. Maria Louise Bruce, of Stockholm, heard of her distress, gave her money and accompanied her to Stockholm, where the American Consul gave her a third class ticket to Liverpool. The Consul gave her a steamer ticket for herself and the remaining child, Martha, but Americans who heard of the woman's sorrow, arranged to have her come over in the cabin of the Campania.

Mrs. Gibbs's husband, Curtis Gibbs, of Berkeley, was informed by wire last night of his wife's return.

BRIDE CHARGES THEFT
Married Three Months, She Has Husband Arrested.

Accused of grand larceny by her wife, a bride of three months, Harry Turk, of 961 110e st., The Bronx, was locked up in the West 123th st. station last night.

In her application for the warrant Mr. Turk said she was married to Turk on short acquaintance, after he had represented himself to be in comfortable circumstances. According to her statement, Turk is the nephew of a property owner and acts as his agent.

Turk is the daughter of the late Battalion Chief Blair, of the Fire Department.

She alleged that while on the steamer C. W. Morse, returning from Lake George, three weeks ago, Turk choked her into unconsciousness. Before she recovered, she stated, he disappeared with jewelry belonging to her valued at $1,500. Mrs. Turk once was an actress for the Pathe Company.

VILLA EXECUTES FEDERAL LEADER
General Rabaga Shot with Four Thieves in Courtyard of Chihuahua Prison.

[By Telegrams to The Tribune.]

Juarez, Mexico, Sept. 12.—General Antonio Rabaga, victor of the battle of Baucha and leader of Federal forces in Mexico for years, was executed in the city of Chihuahua today, with four thieves, by order of General Francisco Villa, according to Americans arriving from the state capital to-night. General Rabaga, who always had prided himself on his personal appearance, was dressed in rags and had a filthy serape around his shoulders when he was taken out into the courtyard of the state penitentiary from Mexico City Thursday and was taken from the train under a heavy guard to the Chihuahua penitentiary, where he was placed in an uncommunicated cell with guards around it.

Americans who have reached El Paso from Chihuahua saw Rabaga's arrival in Chihuahua and say that he was murdered by the deserting cavalry commander of the Madero and Orozco revolutions.

He was dressed in the remnants of his old Federal uniform, his face unshaven and he wore a ragged serape around his shoulders when he left the train. An unofficial report was received by the Constitutionalists in El Paso Saturday that he was shot by a Constitutional firing squad.

TRUCK KILLS BOY SKATER
While roller skating at 68th st. and Av. A last night William Groves, fourteen years old, of 429 East 68th st., was run over by an auto truck and driven by Charles Schley.

The boy's skull was fractured and he died. Schley was held on a charge of homicide.

Autoist Kill Two; Goes Free

TEACHER-MOTHER ACCUSED OF THEFT
Mrs. Ford, Who Lost Job Because of Stork's Visit, Held in Check Case.

Mrs. Mary Ford, twenty-eight years old, of 329 Classon av., Brooklyn, who says that she was forced to resign her place as school teacher when she became a mother, almost two years ago, was arraigned in the Adams st. court yesterday on a charge of grand larceny. It was alleged she forged security city paymaster's checks, got cashed in Brooklyn department stores and obtained more than $1,000.

Mrs. Ford before her marriage was a Miss Graham, and lived with her parents at the Classon av. address. She taught school for some time at Irving av. and Sutter st.

After the birth of her child she was compelled to seek employment again. Being a graduate of the Brooklyn Training School, Mrs. Ford was able to get substitute work. It was then, it is alleged, that she began her thefts by abstracting pay check blanks from the clerk's desk in Public School 155, at Sutter av. and Barrett st.

She pleaded not guilty, and Magistrate Folsell held her in $1,500 bail for examination on Tuesday.

Baby Abandoned in Church
A baby girl about a year old, with blue eyes and light hair, wearing a knitted cap, a white dress, white criss wrapper and pink and white shoes, was abandoned last evening in St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church, at Barclay and Church sts.

Miss Bridget Keogh, of Hubert st., saw the baby in a rear pew. She told Patrolman Nauch, of the Greenwich station. The baby was taken to Bellevue.

HUSBAND SUICIDE AT WIFE'S REQUEST
Skirt Manufacturer Takes Own Life and She Gets Most of His Property.

When Mrs. Emma Klatoze suggested to her husband, William Klatoze, a manufacturer of skirts, that he commit suicide so that she could get his property, she probably did not expect that her alleged suggestion would be carried out. But Klatoze did take his life on September 4, and his wife will get some of his property.

Mrs. Klatoze sued Klatoze for a separation, and in his answer to the action he told about his wife's request that he take his own life.

Klatoze made no will, and yesterday his wife obtained from Surrogate Hoffman letters of administration. His estate was estimated at $8,000. Under the law of intestacy Mrs. Klatoze will receive half of the gross value and then $2,000 of the remainder after the half is taken out. Thus Mrs. Klatoze will receive about $6,000. The remaining $2,000 will be divided between her half-sisters of Klatoze, as the only other next of kin.

Neckwear Cutters Strike for Higher Wages.

The Neckwear Cutters' Union was caught yesterday by the strike first and its members, four hundred in number, quit work to enforce a number of demands, including an advance in wages from $21 to $25 a week. The strike will throw idle about four thousand neckwear makers.

Through the efforts of the State Board of Mediation and Arbitration conferences were started yesterday between committees of the alternate cutters and the United Painters and General Contractors' Association. Colonel Michael J. Rangan, chief mediator of the board, said last evening that the chances of a settlement are favorable.

IRON FOUNDRY DESTROYED
Williamsburg Plant Burned to the Ground.

Fire yesterday afternoon destroyed the foundry of Andrew N. Petersen, at 322 Greenpoint av., Williamsburg, and threatened to spread to oil tanks north of the building. One hundred ironworkers left the building in safety and twenty horses were taken from nearby stables with difficulty. Charles Thompson, a fireman, was slightly injured.

The building is a three story frame structure, occupying the block bounded by North Henry st. and Greenpoint. Kingland and Meserole avs. Four alarms were sent in and streetcar traffic in the neighborhood was tied up for one hour and a half. The building burned to the ground, the loss being estimated at $100,000, covered by insurance. The fire started in the pattern department, on the third floor.

CALLS MEXICO TRANQUIL
Villa Friendly and Vera Cruz Open, Carranza Says.

[From The Tribune Bureau.]

Washington, Sept. 12.—The Constitutionalist junta in Washington gave out this evening a dispatch from General Carranza, President pro tempore of Mexico, in which he pronounces as false most of the reports appearing in the American press regarding conditions in that republic, and asserts that he has not closed the port of Vera Cruz. Carranza also asserts that he and Villa are acting in perfect accord and that he has just made Villa a division commander.

Carranza says that the reports regarding activities by Zapata are unfounded, "acting merely on their own initiative, have been routed and all but exterminated." He says he dispatched a large Constitutional force to Tehuantepec, but recalled 8,000 troops on learning that conditions there were peaceful and friendly.

The revocation of the order promulgated by the Governor of the federal district regarding the occupation of private property and the formal request for arrest "do not mean," Carranza says, "that we intend to wrest from the people their personal property rights."

Carranza also declares that the stability of Mexico is assured by an army of 120,000 men.

ARBUCKLES WILL KEEP CHARITY OPEN
Deep Sea Hotel for Working Girls To Be Continued for a Time.

The fifty working girls who live at the Arbuckle Deep Sea Hotel, which was to be closed yesterday, were made happy by the announcement that the estate would continue the hostelry for another year. The hotel is the old sailing vessel Jacob A. Stammer, moored at the foot of East 23d st., which late John Arbuckle converted into and maintained as a boarding place for working girls. The charity was one of Mr. Arbuckle's hobbies.

When a notice of the estate's purpose to close the hotel was posted recently the girls wrote to Mayor Mitchell and to Katharine B. Davis, Commissioner of Correction, asking if the city could not take over the hotel. They also wrote to the heirs of Mr. Arbuckle begging them to reconsider their plans. A few days ago Superintendent Frank D. Sheehy received word that the hotel would not be closed for the present.

Neckwear Cutters Strike for Higher Wages.

The Neckwear Cutters' Union was caught yesterday by the strike first and its members, four hundred in number, quit work to enforce a number of demands, including an advance in wages from $21 to $25 a week. The strike will throw idle about four thousand neckwear makers.

Through the efforts of the State Board of Mediation and Arbitration conferences were started yesterday between committees of the alternate cutters and the United Painters and General Contractors' Association. Colonel Michael J. Rangan, chief mediator of the board, said last evening that the chances of a settlement are favorable.
